Assignment 1 - A simple Interest Calculator

For this assignment you have to implement a simple interest calculator.

Your program should read the following values from the keyboard:

- principal (amount)
- interest rate

Then it should calculate the interest earned and the accumulated principal for the first and second year. It then should output these results.